About the webinar:

This webinar is part of the annual Child Development in a Diverse Majority Society Lecture Series, featuring distinguished scholars who are researching topics on ethnic/racial issues in developmental science. This year, we highlight Dr. Victoria O'Keefe and her work on Indigenous children and youth.

Indigenous communities and scholars continue to call for strengths-based approaches to research, interventions, and programs. This webinar will review ways that centering Indigenous strengths can promote well-being among Indigenous youth, families, and communities.
